MAKE PROGRESS IN GETTING AID TO DEMOCRACIES

Senate Gets Last of Record-Breaking Defense Bills

(By The Associated Press)
Washington, June 13.—The Senate got the last of the record-making $5,021,619,622 preparedness bills today as Capitol Hill heard reports of "excellent progress" toward further aid to the allies in planes, munitions and possibly destroyers.

The final big defense measure—an extraordinary $1,706,053,908 appropriation for both army and navy purposes—bore the overwhelming approval of a 401-to-1 House vote. Rep. Marcantonio (AL-N.Y.) was the sole opponent.

Double-quick Senate action was a foregone conclusion, once the legislation clears the appropriations committee.

House passage of the bill late yesterday shared legislative attention with the Senate's refusal to sanction voluntary military training for Civilian Conservation Corps enrollees—something which the army high command declined to endorse.

The action was viewed in some quarters as an indication that the Senate would not favor nationwide compulsory military training at this time.

The Senate did vote, however, to give the CCC training for non-combatant activities, a program which army officers said would make the corps a valuable military auxiliary in a national emergency.

James J. McEntee, CCC director, said a staff of 1,500 experts probably would be drawn from industrial sources to instruct the 300,000 enrollees in communications, photography, and machine shop trades.

May Permit Enlistments

In the field of aid for the allies, Congress heard the first suggestion that men as well as materials be permitted to go abroad as reinforcements. Rep. Celler (D-N.Y.) offered a bill to repeal the ban on American enlistments in foreign armies.

Introduction of the bill coincided with a forecast in New York that its early approval was likely.

Vladimir Jabotinsky, president of the World War Zionist organization, coupled the forecast with an assertion that most of the 100,000 American Jews of military age were not only ready to fight for the allies, but were already negotiating for the opportunity with authorities in London, Paris, Ottawa and Washington.

The campaign for material aid to the allies proceeded on numerous fronts.

The chief allied purchasing agent, Arthur B. Purvis, disclosed the government had promised France and Britain "an opportunity to buy more surplus war materials". He was not specific, remarking that "we have requested every type of equipment we could think of."

Evidence of Progress

Tangible evidence of the progress was seen in the fact that 93

Route 2 Closed North of Oregon for Summer

State highway route 2 was closed to all traffic north of Oregon today. The contractor who is building the new bridge at Mud creek, where the course of the Black Hawk Trail is to be changed to eliminate both narrow bridge structure and narrow paving, has started tearing up the old concrete. Traffic is being detoured east from Oregon on state highway, route 64. Two routes are available, one providing for traffic north of the site of the improvement which has been marked as the short detour route. Rockford-bound traffic may proceed east from Oregon on route 64 to the junction with U. S. route 51, thence directly north into Rockford and Wisconsin. It is reported today that the improvement would probably not be completed before about Sept. 15.

John Hamilton Warns of Third Term Dangers

Washington, June 13.—(AP)—John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, declared today that "there is very grave danger to our democratic institutions in the prospect of a third term and all that it implies in the trend toward totalitarianism in this country."

In a formal statement before leaving with his staff for Philadelphia, where the Republican national convention opens June 24, Hamilton added that "the people must look to the Republican party if the peace of the nation is to be preserved."

He disclosed that party leaders expected at least 10 candidates to be placed in the running for the presidential nomination at the convention.

The red haired chairman received reporters at party headquarters after Wendell L. Willkie, late entrant in the Republican presidential race had spoken out against the New Deal except for its foreign policy. Willkie left here for an eastern campaign tour.

In a formal statement Hamilton asserted the convention would be the most important in the party's history because, "it occurs at a time of unparalleled crisis in both domestic and national affairs, when the leadership of the Republican party is needed as never before."

Illinois Delegates
The people, he continued, will look to the Republicans to rescue them "from the mire of despondency in which the inept, extravagant and wasteful new deal administration has enveloped the American people. x x x"

Hamilton said that some questions have arisen, though not formally, as to the legality of the eight national convention dele-

ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS JUNE 22 IS UNLIKELY

Senate's Program Can Not Be Completed By That Date

Washington, June 13.—(AP)—Speaker Bankhead said today it appeared that congress would not adjourn June 22 as desired by administration leaders.

The speaker said at his press conference: "We might as well be candid about it—I don't think we can adjourn as planned. That is the present prospect. We have no assurance we can finish the senate program."

The senate labor committee agreed unanimously today to defer any decision on considering house-approved amendments to the National Labor Act until definite information was available on the date of adjournment of congress.

"It was unanimously agreed," Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) announced, "that by next Tuesday it ought to be determined whether congress intends to adjourn immediately, and that if so there would be no opportunity to get any National Labor Relations Act amendment program through the senate."

A further indication there would be no early adjournment was given by Majority Leader Rayburn (D-Tex) who told house members "all the gentlemen urging that congress remain in session will have all the opportunity to stay in Washington this summer that they desire."

G. O. P. Raised Issue
Republicans had raised the adjournment issue soon after the house convened when Rep. Treadway (R-Mass) accused President Roosevelt of "running to cover" on the question in recent statements.

Proposals to follow the billion dollar defense tax bill with a general revision of the revenue laws were made in the senate finance committee. Secretary Morgenthau agreed that this would be an opportune time for the work "if you gentlemen want to stay here," but Senator Connally (D-Tex) said:

"Too many senators want to go home."

A request that congress take a "fresh look" at the farm surplus problem came from Secretary Wallace, who said that the administration may recommend increased funds to dispose of surplus food to the American needy and to European war refugees.

"The ever normal granary program," he said, "has placed the United States in a position to be of the utmost service to a suffering world when and if fears of famine and scarcity abroad become reality."

Relief Bill Next
After two days of speechmaking on foreign policy, the senate called for final action on the $1,073,000,000 relief bill. It rejected last yesterday, 47 to 35, a proposal by Senator George (D-Ga) that voluntary military training be provided in the Civilian Conservation Corps. On a voice vote, it then approved the administration suggestion that CCC enrollees be given non-combatant training in such lines as communication, cooking, engineering and photography.

Even though administration followers won a finance committee

State's 'Iron Lung' in Use at K. S. B. Hospital

The state-owned iron lung at the Dixon state hospital was called into service at the Katherine Shaw Betha hospital this morning at 3 o'clock. State Highway Officer Edward Mahan and Patrolman John Bohnstiel and Harry Fisher responded to the call at the early morning hour and securing a truck from the state highway department garage, hauled the iron lung from the state institution to the Dixon public hospital.

James Pratt, who several days ago dived into Rock River near the Risley sand and gravel plant, striking the bottom of the river, was the patient who was placed in the lung. His condition has not improved since being rescued from the river and attending physicians early today called Dr. Warren G. Murray at the state institution seeking the service of the heavy piece of equipment. It was the first time that the iron lung has been called into use at the Katherine Shaw Betha hospital and the second time it has been called into emergency use since being stationed at the Dixon state hospital.

French Declare Paris "Open City" to Save It from Bombardment

Counter Attacks by Defenders Stop Nazis

By The Associated Press

Fiercely counter attacking French troops swept the nearest German invaders back five miles in the narrowing siege of Paris today, the French war ministry stated.

Simultaneously, the German high command was reported preparing to broadcast a "surrender or be destroyed" ultimatum against the beautiful French capital.

Nazi armies were attacking the "last ditch" defenders of Paris from three sides.

The German demand for capitulation, Berlin reported, would follow the procedure in the case of Warsaw, capital of Poland, and Rotterdam, capital of Holland.

Warsaw, refusing to surrender, was bombed and shelled to ruins. Rotterdam capitulated in time to save much of the city.

Matter of "Hours"

Berlin asserted the fate of Paris would probably be decided "within the next hours."

The Nazi high command said operations along the entire front were "progressing rapidly" and that columns of the main German army of 2,000,000 men had captured Chalons-sur-Marne, about 25 miles south of the great French Cathedral city of Reims.

The Germans asserted Reims had already fallen. The French denied it.

With flames of the main conflict spreading, Turkey reaffirmed her pledges of mutual military assistance to the allies and dismissed Premier Mussolini's offer to respect her neutrality as "worthless."

Egypt Verges on Battle
Egypt, too, verged on joining the battle. The ancient kingdom of the Nile placed all its communication systems, air and naval bases and ports at the disposal of Great Britain, and promised the "greatest possible assistance" in the war against Italy.

While Britain rushed thousands of fresh troops, tanks and guns to bolster the hard driven French defenders of Paris, Premier Reynaud of France dramatically announced that the French if necessary would withdraw to their African possessions—even their American possessions—to carry on the war against Germany.

His statement apparently doomed German hopes that France might surrender if Paris were captured, as she did in 1870.

Gen. Maxime Weygand's poilus hurled back the Nazi five miles in the vicinity of Beaumont, only 12 miles from the suburbs of Paris. It was here, according to the French, that the Germans had driven their deepest salient toward Paris.

French Admit Retreat
The French acknowledged that they had been compelled to fall back eight miles from Reims—the zone of a German operation apparently aimed at turning the great Maginot line.

Was Going to Mama

Mobile, Ala., June 13.—(AP)—"How old are you?" a hospital nurse asked a negro woman, whose leg was broken in a street accident. "Eighty," she replied. "Where were you going?" "I was taking my mama's clothes to her at my cousin's house."

Further questioning revealed that "mama" claimed to be 107 years old.

The War Today!

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Generalissimo Weygand's allied forces defending Paris are in a tight spot because of the insistent German turning movements which are calculated to encircle and destroy the main French army.

Just how tight that spot is depends, as I indicated yesterday, on how close the Nazi offensive is to the slackening down moment which must come to all such great drives.

One would expect the invading war-machine to show signs of slowing up already, but it must be admitted that thus far those signs have been lacking. The assault was continued with unabated fury today, the French announcing that the Germans were using 3,800,000 troops, which I should to Paris, the capital's military governor pronounced it an "open city"—indicating that the outskirts would be defended to the limit, but that there would not be any street fighting inside Paris itself.

Technically the declaration of the capital as an "open city" means that it contains no military objectives. If observed by the Germans, it would mean saving the famous old capital from bombing and shelling.

Meanwhile Italy, in her first detailed communique on operations, reported air raids "of particular importance" on the French naval base at Toulon and the French Tunisian base of Bizerta, and claimed the sinking of a cruiser and an oil tanker in the Mediterranean.

Britain Moves Children

Great Britain, moving the vanguard of 120,000 school children out of London, announced surrender of part of a division to German forces on the French coast, where the Nazi high command yesterday had claimed capture of 20,000 allied troops and six generals.

British reinforcements were being speeded to France to aid weary Frenchmen battling to hold the German juggernaut pounding at the very gates of Paris.

The British kept a stream of ships moving across the English

"Undying Fight" is Pledged by M. Reynaud

By The Associated Press

Paris, June 13.—The French declared Paris an "open city" today to save it from the devastation of total war, counter attacked German forces curving around the northwestern suburbs and published an appeal to the United States for all help short of an American expeditionary force.

Premier Reynaud, in a message to President Roosevelt, published today at Tours, pledged an undying fight to be carried on, if need be, from the last corner of France, or from North Africa or even from French possessions in America.

(France's possessions in America are French Guiana in South America; the Islands of Martinique and Guadeloupe in the West Indies, and Saint Pierre and Miquelon off the coast of Newfoundland.)

"We are struggling in front of Paris and we are struggling behind Paris and we will shut ourselves up in one of our provinces and, if we are pursued, we will go to North Africa and, if need be, to our possessions in America."

Reynaud said he was "going to the armies"—apparently meaning he was assuming personal direction of the French forces now battling, with some British support, a German drive across northern France into which 120 Nazi divisions, or about 1,800,000 men, had been thrown.

Claims Line Holding
The defense line in the battle for France is holding under the heavy strain of new German divisions which have been combined with the old to make a total of 120 (about 1,800,000 men) striving to crush the French.

A military spokesman said that while the French would continue the defense around Paris—where a five mile gain by counter-attack was reported earlier—they would not defend the city itself.

American-made bombing planes whose efficiency, the spokesman said, has been proved, helped considerably in holding the German offensive.

Everywhere along the northern front, from the channel coast and the valley of the Seine to Montmeidi, northern anchor of the Maginot lines, the situation is "serious," the spokesman acknowledged, but he added that the line, though flexible, holds fast.

At several points small units have counter-attacked, he went on, showing that the spirit of the bearded French Poilus and their bolstering British comrades-in-arms has not been broken.

More Armament Needed
Arrival of new planes, tanks and other armament would have an extremely important effect on the outcome of the battle for France, the spokesman declared, referring to the need for more aid from America.

The military governor, General Hering, left Paris to take his army command after posting notices in public that the capital would be "open." Gen Dentz was left in charge.

As the notices went up this morning, the powerfully equipped German legions were closing in on the capital from the west, north and east, with the defenders backed practically into the suburbs.

This morning's high command communique, although stating that the battle for the capital continued with "undiminished intensity," said the situation had changed but little overnight. It said German pressure was continuing "in particular on both sides of the capital."

Huge Toll Exact
The Germans smashed forward, with the French exacting huge losses nearly every foot of the way, from the west along the Seine, from the north down to the Oise and Oureq valleys, and from the east along the Marne.

According to the French high command's own acknowledgment the Nazi legions in the center yesterday were only 20 miles from the heart of Paris, having clashed with French forces at Beaumont. This town on one of the main highways into Paris is only 12 miles from the northern suburb of St. Denis.

Washington, June 12—The historic French interior line of resistance on the Loire river looks stronger on the map than it is. Its rolling hills would have offered firm geographical defenses in the last war, but this time the hills are insufficiently steep and woods too far apart to afford many more natural obstacles than the new German tanks overcame north of Paris.

Most unsatisfactory feature of this line however, is that it concedes the best French ports and the great bulk of the French industrial region to the hordes of force. Without industrial production, the French could not hope to maintain a battle line there very long.

Whitney of Mendota and Mrs. Lloyd Considine of Harmon, first in 500. After cards the honored couple opened the many beautiful and useful gifts which they received. A delicious lunch was served at a late hour, with the guests returning to their homes wishing the happy couple many years of married life.

Ganging—Roosevelt leader in the House Mr. Rayburn, has been saying around the Democratic cloakroom he would like to see a Democrat vote against adjournment of Congress. Shortly thereafter the entire Oklahoma delegation and then the Virginia delegation decided to vote against it. Individual representatives could be effectively punished by Rayburn but not entire delegations.

Sealine—Prospects of British and French navies ruling the seas from bases in Iceland, Canada, Greenland and Bermuda—in case land resistance becomes impossible—do not look good to naval authorities here. The allies could put up a blockade against the dictators, but it could not be as effective as the one they have been conducting. German and Italian craft could slip through the vast area in foggy and rainy weather almost at will.

Hitler has lost about one-third of his fleet in the war. He still has two battleships, one or two pocket battleships, three of the seven cruisers he started with, and many of his 45 original destroyers. All of his submarines have been lost, but it is not known how many he has built since the war started. The Italian fleet can be bottled in the Mediterranean. Thus the allied navies, the Japanese and ours could be the only armed ships worth mentioning upon the free seas. Any three of these four navies could rule the face for many years to come. Three to four years are required to build a cruiser. How much harm it would do Hitler and Mussolini is debatable. If completely successful on land, he can probably turn the seized industrial plants of Belgium and France to substantial productive effort within six months time. Where he is going to get food this coming winter, however, is not clear.

Something like the personal courage of Lincoln in the Emancipation Proclamation was behind Roosevelt's choice of a course at Charlottesville. It may seem to have been the only course, now that he has taken it. But he made it in the face of the unanimously black confidential reports he has received on the allied outlook and in the dark knowledge that he was temporarily deficient in guns to back up his words. In effect, he was committing himself to a course he could not control.

The alternative would have been to refrain from displays of belligerency toward prospective victors until fully armed and ready. Such a choice apparently occurred to a number of congressmen who have been growling, mostly in private, that the Charlottesville address was either too late or too soon to be decisive. That's about the same advice Lincoln received from his cabinet on the Emancipation Proclamation. The stirring enthusiasm of such efforts can generate a driving force to overcome practical considerations.

Not all political forces here have laid aside practical considerations. The silver bloc, for instance, is backing an amendment to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation bill which will provide government loans for placer miners and corporations to go out and hunt up more gold and silver mines to add to prevailing surplus stores. The amendment also mentions tin, which is a legitimate strategic material, and the movement is being promoted under the guise of adding to this and other needed products. About twenty senators signed their names to this proposal.

Incidentally the U. S. has not paid claims due for mining ventures started similarly during the last war. A bureau is maintained in the interior department to handle these claims.

Even more practical is the Democratic national committee. Largest advertisers in its convention book this year as usual included business firms doing business with the government—Two typewriter firms, air lines operating under post office subsidy, a dredging concern operating under government contracts, aircraft engineers who make planes for the army and navy, etc. The three largest rubber companies apparently got together so each would buy just as much Democratic advertising as the other. They bought exactly $3,125 apiece. But the two largest Democratic advertisers were brewers who took $70,000 worth of this indirect government prestige.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other. Real patriots who may resist the intrigues of the favorite are liable to become suspected and odious, while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people to surrender their interests." From the Farewell Address.

Not In America

The great assassin of today—Adolf Hitler! Atrocities of conquest by men of all time may fade into insignificance before Hitler is through.

War news is censored but the world knows the Nazis took Poland, Norway, Denmark, Belgium and what have you!

But though war news may be censored never believe for one moment that Belgians, Finns, Norwegians and fighting forces of other lands did not take terrific toll on Nazi forces.

Now—following the great assassin of all time—comes the great vulture of all time—Mussolini—to prey on valiant and already crucified but not defeated peoples. Waiting as a vulture always waits—till it is safe to strike.

Two madmen now unleashed, Hitler and Mussolini—a third one by name of Stalin still under leash—the Japanese, wily as always—still in the World War background but clearly classified as brutal to the last degree—selfish and thieving to the last degree—witness the crimes committed by them in China, in face of their own declaration that there is no war in the far east.

Is civilization destroyed in America? No; in the western hemisphere? No;—not so long as we adhere to the Monroe doctrine and the thought of those who drafted the constitution of the United States.

Italy Slightly Inconsistent

Today Italy is at war with France and England, her "friends" of yesterday. Mussolini says he will deliver Italy from the position of being hemmed up in her own sea, the Mediterranean.

Italy has been hemmed up in that sea ever since the "boot" became united under a single government. As long as other powers controlled Gibraltar, the Dardanelles and the Suez canal, Italy has been "suffocated," as Mussolini puts it.

Italy was suffocated, for example, when the Stersa front was organized, and Mussolini proclaimed himself as an ally of the allies to prevent Nazi expansion; today Mussolini is working for the other fellow. The boot is on the other foot.

Italy had no particular objection to being hemmed up during the Ethiopian campaign, and seems to have done fairly well during that bit of aggression regardless of strangulation.

These inconsistencies can be explained only by the evidence that Italy has vast ambition to be a first rate world power. Both the Germans and Italians have found themselves so situated geographically that they can lay no claim to greatness without territorial expansion. Other nations, under like circumstances, have yielded to moral necessity and have made the most of what they had. Among these are Finland, Sweden and Denmark. One has been irreparably damaged, the other seized and Sweden is dominated by circumstances imposed from outside. A fourth example is Switzerland. Have the Swiss ever screamed for more colonies? Have they talked about national destiny?

The allies are receiving shipments of goods from American sources, and Italy's entrance will make that assistance more imperative if the allies are to survive in Europe—and we will want them to survive—in Europe.

Voice of the Past

Remember that fellow Hagood?

Most of us had forgotten him until Mr. Roosevelt's sudden haste to build up the national defense, and Mr. Roosevelt's factual speech showing how many guns, etc., we have in possession (or on order) as compared with what the Republicans maintained in the days before Hitler started rearming Germany.

Gen. Johnson Hagood was in command of the Eighth corps area in Texas back in 1935, and believed this country should maintain and improve its defenses as a settled policy. There was a movement to buy something more for the army before the credit was all gone, and a sub-committee of the House of Representatives was holding hearings on the subject.

General Hagood was among the witnesses, and made no secret of his distaste for the way things were going. He said something about not being able to get a nickel for a lead pencil for the army, while the CCC was able to get crushed stone for a path to the garden house.

The general's comment was displeasing to the powers that still be, and he was relieved of his command. It was bad business in those days for any one to recommend that the army be improved. Such comment was sure to ally one, in the public mind, with the wicked munitions kings, the international bankers and the war mongers. Hagood was accused of disloyalty to something, although we never could understand what.

After Hagood's virtual dismissal we ventured to remark that the general was trying to be loyal to the army, which he had served for many years, and which had nurtured him. We also had the notion that as long as the administration was embarked on a spending jag it might as well spend money for lead pencils for the army as for gravel paths for the CCC parks.

And, in language of the street, some of our readers gave us heck for it. The very idea that we should stand up for a rank militarist like this Gen. Johnson Hagood! And there was Gen. Billy Mitchell, too, who was as right as Hagood.

SERIAL STORY

AN EYE FOR A GAL BY HARRY HARRISON KROLL

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: A big league scout is coming to Lincoln to look at Rossy's pitching. Coach Hurd warns Rossy to learn to control his temper. Rossy seeks an answer to his problem, finally talks to Dr. Tolliver. The greatest decision is to go up into the hills with Rossy.

CHAPTER X

COACH HURD'S ball team worked like horses getting into shape those bright spring days. They played an exhibition game with one of the strong high school teams in the territory, and got a taste of real competition.

Rossy, pitching, held the high school boys to four scattered hits and one run, but he hurt his arm in the last of the fifth and had to retire, after which the high school lads had good grazing. The final score was a close 7 to 6 for the collegiates. The time now was going toward the first real contest between Lincoln and Southern.

"I'm pitching you, remember," Hurd told McAfee. "You nurse that arm like it was one of the quints, bub!"

"I've got it laid up in the incubator, Coach," Rossy said.

THE day of the game was as clear and lovely a time in the mountain spring as anybody could ask for. The campus was vastly excited, for the rumor had got out that a big league scout would be in the crowd watching the contest; and Southern and Lincoln were what sports story writers love to allude to as "traditional rivals."

The gray, potty man in easy tweeds, with narrow blue eyes with southern sandy light still in them, was Rossy knew, like Hill, the famous scout. Hurd put him in a good seat on the weathered grandstand.

The band was out in gala dress. Hannah Shriver, with the hill music in her bones, had made the band, and now she was a lean, slim, pretty girl out there in her orange-and-white regalia.

Judy Tolliver was one of the cheerleaders. All in white with bits of orange about her—the college colors—she was giving the cheer section all the personality she had.

Rossy warmed up with old man Leacock. With the hour going toward 2, the noise of warming up sank to a sudden calm. Rossy and the old coach came and sat on the bench. For the first time Rossy McAfee knew a curious sense of fear, of impending calamity. It was clairvoyant and indefinable.

"Play ball!"

Rossy walked, with an increasing feeling of uncertainty, out to the mound. The cheer section gave him all a fellow could have asked for, and yet he was nervous, and he suddenly discovered that his pitching arm was faintly sore for no reason he could think.

The first batter for Southern advanced to the plate with three bats. He discarded two and grinned at Rossy, who stood rubbing the ball on his hip.

"No bean-balls, McAfee!" Rossy felt the hot color of fury cross his face. The umpire behind the catcher called again, "Play ball!" Rossy wound up and the first pitch went wild. The batter made an elaborate duck just the same, and the visiting rooters, 200 of them, gave the pantomime a great hand.

Rossy pitched again and the ump called strike one. But the third pitch was wild again, and so was the fourth. Rossy shot a hard straight ball down the groove for the next strike, and then it was a game of wits and accuracy.

Rossy tried to out the plate with a low outside curve as the batter tried to crowd the plate for a dodge. The fellow's head was low, his neck stuck out ever so little. Something in Rossy's soul began to itch to bean that head, smash that grin off that gloating face. He walked the first man to try to save his lost soul.

He walked the next man, too, and for about the same reason. He knew, deep inside of him, they were out to get his goat. The third batter up filled the bases. The man coming up was some remote tribesman of the Tollivers. Another hillbilly guzzling the gruel of book learning to get to play ball, to have a chance at big time. Sammy Tolliver, and Southern's best batter.

For a short while Rossy was blind. He knew like Hill was watching his every move. That the scout was also informed of the history of Rossy's father Rossy could not doubt. He knew, too, that all the Southern fans were getting his goat. Everything was stacked to work on his one vulnerable spot—his unstable temper.

"Play ball!" came the cry, and Rossy pitched the first one wild. A roar mingled with a groan.

Tolliver snickered and yelled, in a voice that carried all over the grounds, "Bub, my head's up here!" He tapped it with a long finger.

Judy broke from the cheerleaders. "Knock his block off, Rossy!"

THAT brought a roar of laughter and applause from Lincoln boys. Rossy took his time getting ready for the next pitch. It was a curious, and yet an appropriate moment to remember the Fourth of July game when his father had been killed in just this way, and asked for, and yet he was nervous, and he suddenly discovered that his pitching arm was faintly sore for no reason he could think.

Back in those days hate was hate, and a feud was a bloody game where the rules were to kill your enemy. Maybe all that would cause a man to go wild and murder on an open ball diamond. Or perhaps it only made a man so nervous, so mad, so wild, that he could hit a head only by some fascinated mischance. Even now Rossy had the feeling he could have sent down a baffling curve and perhaps have knocked Tolliver to kingdom come.

"Come on, steady there, McAfee," came a solitary powerful voice out of the dome of calm. Rossy turned and looked straight at Dr. Tolliver, sitting next to the man from New York. The light was so clear, and Rossy's eyes were so acutely sensitive, that he verily read the expression on the man's face. It was warm, vital, and a kind of confession in its very understanding.

In that moment, by a mingling of cunning and clairvoyance, Rossy was informed that this man looking at him had pitched the ball that struck Jay McAfee, and was the cause of his death—or murder.

"Steady, son," Dr. Tolliver called. "Take it easy. Just take it easy."

ROSSY drew in a breath. His feelings were strange and deep and without name. He pitched the ball and the sharp crack broke at the plate and the ump bawled: "Strike one!"

Rossy pitched again, knowing the batter would wait him out, "Strike two!"

"That's the old stuff!" came a shout. The cheerleaders swung into action. Rossy grinned. Now his face was cool.

He knew by the way Tolliver took his stance with bat rigid in his hand that now he was through fooling. Rossy wound up with maddening leisure and gave his terrific baffling curve all he could put behind it. He heard the fierce crack of the ball in the catcher's mitt, saw the swirl of the bat that would have blurred in a candid camera at a five-hundredth part of a second's exposure.

"You're out!" ump's squall.

Up went a roar that revived all the despairing manhood in Rossy McAfee. He fanned the next two batters in one-two-three order and had the curious feeling in getting himself out of a hole that he had saved his soul and his reputation at once. But he didn't know.

Local Linkswomen Are Hostesses at Guest Day Match

Dixon Country club women were hostesses to 54 golfers yesterday for a links event and bridge-luncheon. Guest linkswomen were present from Sterling, Rochelle, and Oregon, including Miss Betty Putnam, brilliant young golf star from Oregon, who has a long list of championships to her credit and who led the field yesterday with a plus 7.

Early morning showers delayed the players until about 10 o'clock, when they teed off for a match against blind bogey and for low putts. Mrs. Floyd Chapman of Dixon finished with a plus 2; Mrs. E. Roeder of Rochelle, minus 1; and Mrs. June Hill of Sterling, minus 5.

Mrs. R. Franklin carded low putts for the Oregon players, and others who displayed skill in approaching the cup included Mrs. Marie Hall of Rochelle, Miss Virginia Johnston of Sterling, and Mrs. Harold Coss of Dixon. Mrs. Benson of Sterling was credited with low putts in the 9-hole class. After luncheon, 16 of the women remained at the clubhouse for bridge. Those receiving score favors were Florence Smith of Oregon, Mrs. Gene Cahill of Rochelle, and Mrs. Henry Hey of Dixon.

agreement to vote Saturday on the tax bill, the senate debate next week may take longer than they first anticipated.

Byrd Asks Economy
A major fight was in the making over a proposal by Senator Byrd (D-Va.) to which 10 percent from non-defense and "non-essential" appropriations. Byrd estimated that his proposal would save $500,000,000.

The CIO advised Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the finance committee that the house-approved bill would fall heavily on low-income workers and small business men.

The statement urged full tax utilization of "large aggregates of wealth and income" and suggested that tax exemptions on government bonds be stripped away.

While the house dealt with minor legislation, the senate labor committee was called together to consider various amendments to the Wagner labor relations law. Committee members reiterated that there was virtually no prospect for senate action at this session.

appeared to be that along the Marne, scene of two great struggles in the World War, in 1914 and 1918, both resulting in German defeats.

The French announced that the Germans had crossed the Marne, with the French falling back along a line from Meaux to Chateau-Thierry. Meaux is 26 miles from the center of Paris and only about 15 miles from some of the eastern suburbs.

Other German Thrusts
The third German force was acknowledged to be as close as Pancy-sur-Eure, about 45 miles west of Paris. In stating that the French armies were holding the Germans there and at Evreux, a few miles further west, the high command disclosed the Germans were well below the Seine in that sector.

In addition to these three main drives, the Germans were engaged in two other important thrusts. One was a drive by part of the strong German right wing northward toward Caudebec, which is only about 50 miles from the important French port of Le Havre.

The second was a great battle for the cathedral town of Reims, virtually levelled in the World War, 80 miles northeast of Paris. There the Germans rushed into the fight an entire mechanized army corps of 80,000 men and about 3,000 tanks and armored cars. The French last night said they still held the city, although the Germans claimed its fall yesterday.

"To the northeast of Reims," said the high command last night, "information from numerous prisoners indicates the enemy has suffered very heavy losses as a result of counter-attacks by our mechanized units and repeated bombardment by our aviation. Certain of our aerial squadrons returned five times to the battle in the course of the day."

Scene First 1914 Victory
In the first battle of the Marne, in September of 1914, the allies scored their first decisive victory, finally halting the Kaiser's men after their drive through Belgium and southward into France.

In the second battle, in July and August of 1918 the allies won again, this victory turning the tide in the final year of the war.

He said that under the rules, delegates must be selected at least 30 days before the convention. He added however that Indiana had violated this rule in 1936, but no formal question was raised and the delegates were allowed to sit because there was no contesting delegation and "no one was harmed by it."

He said he did not expect a formal complaint would be made against the eight Illinois delegates because some delegates from the state might resent it. Illinois' 50 district delegates were chosen in a primary in April.

PITY THE POOR GORILLA

The sensational gorilla stories of Paul du Chailu, first white man to shoot a gorilla, did much to create an erroneous impression of this animal. Edgar Allan Poe's "Murders in the Rue Morgue" increased the public distrust of these apes. The works of other fiction writers further served to give them such a terrifying reputation that they almost caused extinction of the animal.

DARWIN'S THEORY

Charles Darwin did not believe that man descended from present-day monkey species, but that man and the anthropoid apes descended from a common apelike ancestor—an animal that might be classed by a naturalist as a monkey.

Weekly Food and Marketing

Letter by Mrs. George Thurn for Dixon Telegraph Readers

Campers and gardeners were not the only outdoor specialists affected by the long, cold winter. Even the busy bee got off to a late start in 1940, and now is coming from flower to flower in an effort to make up for lost time.

A recent bulletin shows that keepers of bees suffered considerable loss from the continued bitter weather, but apian records now indicate normal activity in the movement of bees. Bees, of course, play an important part in the pollination of crops, as well as supplying that toothsome sweet associated with hot biscuits, crispy fritters, waffles, and flavory baked goods.

The similarity of honey-making and the manufacture of maple syrup recently was brought out by Commissioner Holton V. Noyes, of the New York state department of agriculture and markets, in the following interesting words:

"Nectar is not honey when first gathered by the bees. In fact it is little more than sweetened water, with the addition of minerals, oils and aromatic odors, which give honeys their characteristic flavors. This nectar is evaporated in the hive in much the same manner as maple sap is evaporated to make maple syrup. The evaporation process gives to the honey the richness and sweetness for which we prize it so highly.

"When we stop to think that the nectar often contains 75 percent water, we realize that more than three pounds of nectar must be gathered by the bees to make one pound of honey. Bees evaporate the nectar by scattering it throughout the hive, a small amount in each cell, and then continually work it over while at the same time forcing a current of air through the hive by fanning their wings. As soon as the honey has been evaporated to the proper consistency, it becomes what is called 'ripe' and the bees cap over the cells with wax."

The new slogan, "Make Honey a Habit," has sound health logic, as well as the arguments of flavor and variety. Honey has played a prominent part in the diet of all generations and races of men. Not only is honey one of the oldest foods known, but there is no food that is produced over such a wide territory and under such wide geographic and climatic conditions.

A natural food substance, honey is primarily an energy food, but it has other factors that enhance its food value. The energy value of honey is due to the sugar it contains. This energy amounts to about 1,485 calories per pound.

Honey is not just sugar, for it contains a number of ingredients which put it at the top of the class as a wholesome natural sweetening agent. The sugars most commonly used for table and cooking purposes, cane and beet sugars, must be broken down into simpler sugars by digestive enzymes before they can be assimilated. The resulting simpler sugars, dextrose and levulose, make up almost the entire natural sugar content of honey.

Therefore honey is rapidly digested and quickly absorbed, because the honey sugars are almost wholly available for rapid absorption into the body. Honey is recognized as a satisfactory supplement to infant feeding. It is an excellent source of readily available food energy for growing children, and it often is recommended for invalids who have impaired digestion. Honey also contains calcium, phosphorus and iron compounds in small amounts ready for immediate utilization.

Because of their characteristic flavor, foods sweetened with honey frequently are found to be more satisfying than foods sweetened with other sugars. Even the confirmed "sweet tooth" is tempted to eat less of them, and for this reason a lower consumption of sweets sometimes results.

Questions in Cooking school have revealed that many modern homemakers are still uncertain about the correct care of honey, and its use in cooking. Keep liquid honey in a warm dry place where the temperature is 75 degrees or over. Although freezing does not injure the color or flavor of liquid honey, it may hasten granulation. When honey crystallizes, it can be returned to the liquid state, if desired, merely by placing the container in warm water. Do not put comb honey in the refrigerator. It is better kept at room temperature.

One interesting revelation of the cooking school question period is that many home cooks are hesitant to use honey because they claim it is "far too sweet". The same women explain that honey cannot be measured or poured easily.

It is true that honey does not pour as readily as commercial syrups, since it has a heavier body and contains less water. Honey is far more convenient in diluted form for sweetening cereals, candying sweet potatoes or other vegetables, such as parsnips, on baked apples, on ice-cream for sundaes and in making many hot weather drinks with fruit.

According to the figures of the U. S. Bureau of Chemistry and Soils, Carbohydrate Laboratory, honey should be diluted on the following basis to have its moisture content comparable to the syrup specified: Add one-third cup water to one cup honey to get the density of maple syrup; add one-fifth cup water to one cup honey to get the density of corn or cane syrup; add two tablespoons water to one cup honey to get the density of molasses. These figures reveal honey as an economy buy.

Honey diluted to the density of maple syrup (three cups honey to one cup water) is satisfactory for general use. Blend the honey with hot water and keep in covered container in a cold place. If it is kept at 55 degrees F. or lower, the mixture may be kept indefinitely.

The simplest way to use honey is the drizzling method. Warm honey drizzles from a sharp-pointed pitcher or glass, whereas cold honey pours in a heavy stream, making most foods too sweet. Place the honey jar or pitcher in warm—not hot—water for about ten minutes before using. At the end of that time, they honey will be just the right consistency to drizzle in tiny threads.

When using honey in cooking, measure the shortening first, then the honey will be just the right spoon. Honey will pour readily to the last drop from utensils coated with shortening. Use a slow, or moderate oven, in baking with honey.

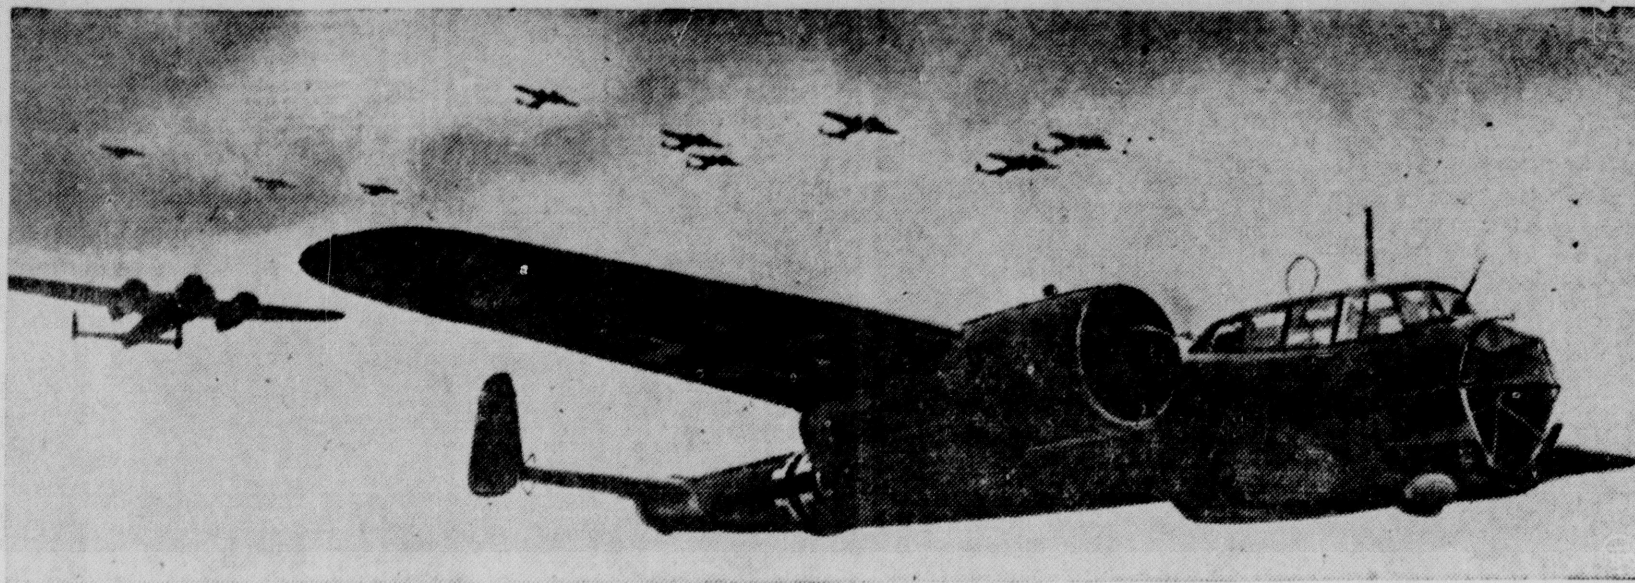

PICNIC TREATS

Honey Date Nut Bread
One cup dates, one cup boiling water, two tablespoons shortening, three-fourths cup honey, one egg, one and one-half cups flour, one cup nuts, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder. Cook dates in the water until the mixture is thick. Cool. Cream honey and shortening. Add beaten egg and date mixture and nuts. Sift together dry ingredients and add. Pour into a loaf pan, rubbed with shortening and flour. Mix. For added protection, line the bottom with waxed paper. Bake in a moderately slow oven 325 degrees for one hour and twenty minutes. This yields one loaf of bread, which is excellent with only butter, or with a thin spread of cream or cottage cheese.

Chocolate Cookies

Another essential in the lunch or picnic box is cookies that really stay moist and flavory:
One and one-fourth cups honey, one cup shortening, two eggs, two squares chocolate, one and one-half cups rolled oats, one teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon soda, two and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup walnuts.

Melt chocolate. Cream shortening and honey, add beaten eggs, oatmeal and chocolate. Add sifted dry ingredients, walnuts and vanilla. Drop on cookie sheet rubbed with coating of flour and shortening. Bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven, 325 degrees F. This excellent recipe yields about seven dozen.

APPETITE TEASERS

Stuffed Tomato Salad
Cottage cheese has many health essentials to recommend it at any season. It is particularly appetizing in early summer.

Cut a slice from firm uniform-sized red tomatoes. Scoop out the center with a teaspoon. Salt lightly and turn upside down in a cold place to drain for one-half hour. Stuff with cottage cheese seasoned with chopped parsley, minced onion or chives, and a small amount of thick sour cream. Garnish with mayonnaise and radish roses. Another combination with the cheese is chopped stuffed olives and celery, or finely chopped watercress. If fresh celery is not available, season with celery salt.

Tomato Juice Cocktail

Three cups tomato juice, one teaspoon salt, two teaspoons lemon juice, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, one teaspoon onion juice. Shake ingredients with cracked ice or ice cubes. When well mixed, pour into beverage glasses and serve. This yields six servings.

Strawberry Cocktail

Mash well one quart strawberries. Add two cups sugar and the juice of two lemons. Let stand three hours. Add one quart cold water, strain and stir until dissolved. Let stand one hour on ice. At the beginning of luncheon, serve in tall, narrow glasses, reserving four berries, cut in two, for each glass. A sprig of mint may be used as added garnish.

Bread and Milk

"What has become of that old-fashioned super-food, a bowl of bread and milk," asked a prominent physician recently.

Writing in a leading medical journal, he declared that the "matchless combination of bread and milk was the faithful, proven ally of the doctors of past generations." Other doctors enlarged on the theme, in these words:

"And why not? Our rugged ancestors were raised on bread and milk. They thrived on it long before anyone had ever heard of a vitamin or made a chemical analysis of a food. There were many good things in the horse-and-buggy days, and this was one of them.

"Today, when a new science of nutrition has been developed, we know exactly why bread and milk is a food combination of unique value.

"In the first place, bread and milk are almost perfect dietary supplements to each other. What little the one lacks for complete sustenance, the other furnishes in a most satisfactory manner. Where will you find two other such palatable foods that can do this?

"No single food is perfect, according to the accepted standards of human nutrition. There are, furthermore, but few combinations of only two foods that will give a well-rounded diet. Bread and milk stand nearly alone in this respect."

In order to obtain full value from the protective foods, which include not only milk and dairy products, but also eggs, fruits, green leafy vegetables and yellow vegetables, the diet must have a sufficient quota of the valuable energy-bearing foods, such as bread, potatoes, meat, and various vegetables.

FOOD TIPS

European cooks are experts in the art of flavory, unique stuffings, as well as sauces. One of the specialties is loin of pork stuffed with prunes. The flesh is loosened from the bones, and the pocket so formed is filled with cooked prunes, then closed, and the loin roasted. Another novelty is tenderloin of veal, slit and stuffed with fresh leaves of young parsley. The meat is sewed or tied together, roasted and served with a rich pan gravy, for which cream is blended with the flour.

Serve creamed mushrooms on toast for a luncheon special, remembering that they add health vitamins to the daily diet.

A can of ready-to-serve spaghetti on the emergency shelf provides an excellent way to stretch left-over meats. It also combines with mushrooms, dried beef, chopped round steak, or diced frankfurters.

Canned shrimp usually is on the homemaker's reserve shelf, and may be used for a surprise dish, flavored with curry. Remove sand veins from two cups fresh cooked, or canned shrimp. Place in double boiler and mix with curry sauce, made by adding one to two teaspoons curry powder to white sauce. (For a mild curry flavor, one teaspoon is sufficient). Cook over boiling water until hot and serve.

Corn fritters go well with mushroom gravy or cheese sauce. They also blend with tomato or celery sauce. Serve them for luncheon or that popular supper snack.

FIGURING AN I. Q.

A person's intelligence quotient (I. Q.) is figured by multiplying the mental age by 100 and dividing by the actual age. Thus, a normal person had an I. Q. of 100. Below 80 is considered subnormal, and a person of gifted mentality is denoted by a rating of more than 120.

ORIGIN OF "PIN MONEY"

When pins were invented in the 14th century, they were so expensive that it was customary to give a person a sum of money to be used as "pin money"; hence the term.

Why They Wear Red Coats

When the sport of fox hunting was in its infancy, it was found that a hunter who had fallen from his mount could be more easily located if he wore a red coat, so most fox hunters now wear red or pink coats.

CONN'S HEAVYWEIGHT TEST WILL BRING LARGE PURSE

Pittsburgh, June 13.—(AP)—Light Heavyweight Champion Billy Conn's big test among the heavyweights will bring him the largest purse of his career.
Manager Johnny Ray said the Pittsburgh Irishman would draw down 35 per cent of the expected $100,000 or better gate for fighting Bob Pastor of New York, at the Polo Grounds August 13.

"Tickled to get into the 'big money,'" Conn declared he didn't think Pastor would be "any tougher" than his other opponents so far.
"Pastor is a tough fighter," declared Ray. "If we lick him we'll take on Joe Louis."

Family Finds Way to Purchase Insurance With Money Saved By Buying in New-Type Food Store

Husband Learns How Friend Bought Policy By Having is Wife Shop in Latest Kind of Market --- Save Enough on Meal to Finance It.

"I INSURE MY WIFE, AND MY WIFE INSURES GOOD MEALS," HE DECLARES

Living Costs go Down at Same Time Quality, Variety, pleasure Increase, Due to Modern Shopping Methods.

John's big worry was how to save enough money to protect his family against the future. He and Mary had worked over a budget . . . had figured it out a hundred times . . . but his salary just didn't seem adequate. Sometimes he jokingly said they might stop eating for a while and use the money for insurance. . . .

Naturally, when Bill—one of the men in the shop—bought an insurance policy, Jim was interested. Bill explained, "Look, John," he said, "Here's what we did. My wife modernized her food-buying methods. She started getting all our food at one big, new type of food market. We found that we could save as much as $8 a month and still get more and better food. That money is paying for my policy."

John looked skeptical, but Bill laughed. "You probably think I sound like a salesman. Well, to be truthful, I don't blame you. I didn't think savings like that were possible, either, when my wife told me about this new Super Market. But I asked around and found out how it works, and what an experienced and efficient organization is behind it. . . .

"Over a period of 80 years, this concern has grown from a small store in downtown New York to a nation-wide business serving millions of customers in thousands of stores every day. All that time they've been learning how to cut costs of gathering and distributing and selling food. They go directly to producers—to farmers and growers and canners. They manufacture or pack many of their own foods. They've perfected a system that reduces waste motion, eliminates unnecessary 'in-between' profits, and brings high-quality foods to customers at really low prices. . . .

"Now they've taken another step forward. They've opened up Super Markets that are the latest word in food stores and that enable them to reduce the cost of merchandising still further. These stores are BIG. They carry two thousand items, and that means that each item bears less of the burden of overhead costs. They sell vegetables, meats, fruits, baked goods and other perishables so quickly that they have little chance to lose their freshness, so there are no large wastage losses to be paid by customers in the form of higher costs. There's no delivery, telephone, or charge account service, and that means substantial savings. . . .

"Take a system that's already keenly efficient in gathering and distributing food and combine it with a Super Market that's the most modern method known of cutting down the cost of selling it, and you're bound to get healthy savings. Well—I'm buying my insurance with those savings. . . .

"Okay, okay," exclaimed John. "There's only one organization that can possibly answer to that description. A. P. E. Even I know that. I'll tell Mary to try buying all our food in the A. P. Super Market near us, and see if what you say is true."

So that's how Mary discovered what real savings she can make by buying food this popular new A. P. Super Market way. John has taken out his insurance policy—and he's fond of saying that Mary insures delicious meals while he insures the family's future. Now they're all happy—spending less, getting more, and living better, since they're buying in their A. P. Super Market.

Move On to Force GOP Committee to Give Dewey Okay

Springfield, Ill., June 13—(AP)—The Republican state convention's powerful resolutions committee was formed today and promptly became the center of a fight to pledge Illinois' 58 national GOP convention delegates to the presidential candidacy of Thomas E. Dewey at the state conclave tomorrow.

Senator Arnold P. Benson of Batavia, in charge of drafting the party's state platform, said any convention endorsement of Dewey would not be incorporated in the formal platform but said the resolutions committee might recommend a separate resolution supporting the New York prosecutor's candidacy.

Some party leaders said privately, however, they were opposed to binding the state's delegates to any one candidate despite Dewey's vote in the advisory presidential primary last April. Dewey, running unopposed, polled 85 per cent of the state's Republican vote.

One resolution presented to the Benson committee by Attorney George B. Gillespie of Springfield condemned what it called a "stop Dewey" campaign and asserted that Illinois delegates would be "disloyal and un-Republican" if they did not vote for the New Yorker in the Philadelphia convention.

Convention at 11:30 a. m.
Chairman Ben L. Berve of the state central committee predicted the Dewey question would be threshed out in the resolutions committee before the convention meets at 11:30 a. m. (Daylight saving time) tomorrow in the state armory. Berve commented: "I imagine the convention will be inclined to adopt a resolution endorsing Dewey, but whether it will go all the way and attempt to pledge the state's delegates to him I don't know."

Senator Benson was scheduled for chairmanship of the resolutions committee, which is composed of 25 members—one from each congressional district. Benson was chairman of a pre-convention platform committee.

Others on the resolutions committee who worked on a preliminary draft of the platform included Edward A. Hayes of Decatur; Rep. Hugh Green, Jacksonville; Judge Oscar F. Nelson, Chicago; Rep. Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Chicago; Senator Simon E. Lantz, Congerville; and former State Senator William E. King of Chicago.

For U. of I. Trustee
Three recommendations for Republican nominees as University of Illinois trustees were submitted to the convention leaders by the U. of I. Alumni Association, through a special committee headed by Wayne Johnston of Chicago.

Recommended for the G. O. P. slate were F. J. Thompson, Chicago, vice-president of the Illinois Central railroad; Parke Livingston, Chicago, a dairy company executive, and Roy Helm, Metropolis, an attorney. Harold E. (Red) Grange of Chicago, former U. of I. football star, also was being considered as a nominee.

Keynote of the convention will be Evan Howell of Springfield, former President of the Illinois Young Republicans club. Other leading speakers will include Dwight H. Green, the party's candidate for governor, and C. Wayne Brooks, candidate for senator.

St. Louis 'Mystery'
Boat on Maiden Run
St. Louis, June 13—(AP)—St. Louis' "mystery" boat—a far cry from the paddle-wheelers that were tradition on the Mississippi river—made its maiden run last night.

Christened the "Admiral," it is the largest—385 foot long—passenger craft ever to cruise the river. It is owned by the Streckfus Steamers, Inc., and will be used for pleasure excursions out of St. Louis this summer.

Closely guarded during its long period of construction, the oil-fueled, steel boat was a subject of much speculation. The completed craft resembles an armored gunboat and is streamlined and modern to its indirect lighting and air-conditioning.

HOLD EVERYTHING!

COPE, 1940 BY NEA SERVICE, INC. 17th REG. U. S. PAT. OFF. 6-13

"But, Agatha, it was my turn tonight to have the trap!"

say would be about twice the defending force.

Where Weygand's Poilus got the strength to counter-attack north of Paris this morning and hurl the Hitlerites back five miles is a matter of wonder. This feat speaks volumes, however, for the fighting spirit and stamina of the defenders.

The German turning operations have continued with some success on both allied flanks, and these represent the worst danger spots in the long battle line.

On the allied left flank, which has rested on the coast, the nazis have smashed their way across the Sene river and pushed the allies back a considerable distance to the vicinity of Evreux. The French high command says it is holding the line, but the penetration must be disconcerting. If it continues, the allied line will give way.

Over on the French right wing the Germans have compelled a withdrawal in the Meaux-Chateau Thierry sector and have crossed the river Marne. Here again is a real threat to the allied line.

Should the Germans be able to sever the allied front here it might prestage a disastrous rolling back which, taken in conjunction with the turning movement on the west flank, would mean encirclement of the allied forces.

Weygand's task is to hold the German onslaught until there is the inevitable slackening of the offensive.

As this is being written a bulletin from Berlin states that the French military will be asked by the German high command to surrender Paris. Apart from other considerations, the nazis have been considerably concerned over world reaction to a destructive siege of Paris.

As the majority of the people the world over interpret this symbol which arises from the siege of Paris, so will go social and political developments in many lands.

The most striking development of the Italian campaign has been their sowing of a great minefield about the important British naval base of Malta. If you will glance at your maps you will see the purpose of this move very easily.

This is the narrowest part of the Mediterranean. It is only a hundred miles between the African mainland and Sicily. Close to this gap lies the Italian fortified island of Pantallaria.

The idea of the mine barrier obviously is to cut the Mediterranean in two and thereby keep the British and French from direct contact with their forces in the Near East. This will raise a serious problem for the allies if Mussolini is able to make it stick.

It was the second defeat of the year which Potter has handed to the Pale Hose.

NOBLE KIZER, ONCE PURDUE COACH, DIES

Lafayette, Ind., June 13.—(AP)

—Noble Earl Kizer, a veteran strategist of Big Ten football though he was only 40, died today. A kidney ailment which forced his retirement from the post of Purdue university gridiron coach in 1937 sent him to St. Elizabeth hospital Monday night. He succumbed at 3:15 A. M. (CST).

Kizer served seven years as coach and seven years as athletic director—a job he still held at the time of his death. When he became ill he gave up the coaching to Mal Elward and took a year's vacation.

In his years as coach, Purdue teams played 68 games and lost only 13, of which only nine were in the Western Conference. In 1931 Purdue tied for the Big Ten championship and the next year, unbeaten, it won the title.

Kizer in 1934 was chosen in a nationwide poll of fans to coach a college all-star team in a game with the Chicago Bears, professional champions. The result was a tie.

He started football early, in high school in Plymouth, Ind., where he was born March 11, 1900. He entered the University of Notre Dame in 1921. There, in 1924, he was a guard on the team of the late Coach Knute Rockne that started the "Four Horsemen" backfield and won national honors. He also was basketball captain, playing floor guard.

Graduated in 1924, he went to Purdue in the fall of 1925 to be an assistant football coach. He became coach in 1930 when Jimmy Phelan resigned to sign a contract with the University of Washington.

In the spring of 1933, Col. Nelson A. Kellogg, athletic director, quit to join the Lehigh university staff and Kizer was appointed to succeed him. Kizer held both jobs four years.

He is survived by the widow, the former Phyllis Templin of Delphi, Ind.; two sons, Richard and Noble, Jr.; his father, and two brothers.

GAMES FRIDAY NIGHT

Sinclair Oilers vs State Hospital
United Cigar vs Sparks

In spite of the fog, mist and soggy night at the Airport last night, two of the season's brightest, clearest and liveliest games were staged before a fair-sized crowd.

It was a night for the underdogs to come through and the undefeated aggregations back into the "we-too-are-human" classification. Kellers staged a terrific rally to beat the Freemans club from the gates of their citadel and the proud Reynolds club was forced to unbend and fall before the onslaught of the smash hitting of the Three Deuces' sluggers.

The results of the twin bill left the Three Deuces undefeated in two games and lumped the Kellers, Reynolds and Freemans all in the .750 group with three wins and one defeat.

In the first game Freemans slipped out two singles in the first frame, but failed to bring the runners home. In the first of the second Kellers scored two runs when Wadsworth was safe on a single, went to second on the shortstop's error and scored on the shortstop's slip-up. R. Nicklaus was safe on a single to center field and advanced on infield playing to score later on Weigle's hit.

In the last of the fourth Pitman beat out a hit for the Freemans team, went to second when Fox bunted safely and scored on the catcher's error.

Freemans Knot the Score

Freemans knotted the count in the last of the fifth when Randall was safe on a line drive over third base, went to second on Dempsey's sacrifice bunt, to third on an infield play and scored on Cramer's single to right field.

Freemans forged into the lead in the sixth when Kelenner was safe on the second basemen's error and went to second on the overthrow. He stole third and scored later on Kuhn's double to left field. Pitman's second hit, a single, scored Kuhn and the Freemans led 4 to 2.

Not until the first of the seventh did the Kellers begin their rally—and they turned on such a show of might that it dazzled the shoemen completely.

Wadsworth Singles

Wadsworth as the first man up, singled, went to second on Frase's hit. Mantach was safe on a fielder's choice as Wadsworth scored at the plate on a throw from short field to home. R. Nicklaus was safe on a fielder's choice and Frase scored on Mill's sacrifice fly to right field. Gannon singled over second base to load the bases again. Weigle fanned for the second out and Cox was walked and another run came in. Sloan singled over second base and R. Nicklaus brought in the last run as the side was retired when F. Nicklaus was out from second to third. It had been Mill's sacrifice fly which had brought in the tying rally and inspired the Kellers to victory.

Williams did the chucking for the losers and he showed seven hits, walked two and struck out four. Weigle, the winning mound-er, allowed nine hits, walked none and struck out two.

Forreston Nips United Cigar in Damp Struggle

The Forreston machine shop defeated the United Cigars of Dixon in a rainstorm at Forreston Tuesday night in a wild game by the score of 12 to 11.

Dixon started the scoring by a missed third strike on Bugg, a fielder's choice and Ellis doubled down third base line. Forreston came back in their half of the first on singles by Miller and Smith. Dixon scored in the second on a hit, two walks and an error. The home boys counted when Hietman singled, Cheeseman walked, Miller tripled and Hahn doubled over the center fielder's head. Miller scored.

N. Smith hit a homer over the left field fence scoring Hahn ahead of him. In the fourth, with bases loaded, Smith of Dixon hit a home run scoring four runs. In the seventh the locals, two runs behind, came back to win on singles by Livingston, a double by Lang and a mighty home run by Hietman.

FORDHAM FOLDS

Flash Fordham, one of the best pitchers in the league had one of his off-nights last evening as he attempted to hold the battering Three Deuces who charged ahead for 11 hits and an equal number of runs to win.

A first inning, in which the Three Deuces batted around, shattered the Reynolds' mound, as six runs scored on three hits, and four walks. From that point on the 22's had the game in their pocket although the Reynolds aggregation, one of the most persistent clubs in the league, again and again tried to break the spell. This they did for moments such as the last half of the first inning when two runs scored on a single by Carlson and a rap which was counted as a triple for Page partly because it was knocked out into the territory of the parked cars in the right field and made it tough-going for the fielder. An error by the shortstop had put Flanagan on first and he scored on Page's socker-rue. The latter tagged on an infield play.

Double Play

In spite of a snappy double play by Reynolds in the second inning, two more runs scored for the Three Deuces. Sweeney singled, advanced on two errors one of which left Bushman on first. Gleesner was safe on the shortstop's error and two runs tagged on a hit by Pull and an error in right field. Anderson drove the ball smack into the hands of Pitcher Fordham who threw to third for the double play to nab Gleesner.

In the last of the sixth after two walks, Mason was exchanged for Minnick on the mound for the Three Deuces. The new pitcher walked the first man to face him and the bases were loaded. A hit by Cox scored two runs and a third counted when Fordham scored on an infield play.

The determined Three Deuces counted three more runs in the seventh with singles by Bushman and Gleesner, a double by McVoy and one error.

In the last of the seventh Flanagan walked and scored after an infield play. Fordham allowed 11 hits, walked four (all in the disastrous first inning) and struck out five. Mason, in 5½ innings, allowed three hits, walked five and struck out one. Minnick allowed two and struck out one.

HONESTY IN GOVERNMENT AS IN PRIVATE BUSINESS

Some one has truthfully said that we should build our new ideas on our old ideals. It is an accepted truth that many procedures and practices considered good years ago are now out of date. These may truly be referred to as belonging to the "horse and buggy days". But it is no less true that certain fundamental ideals and principles, based on eternal laws, can never change, and are as binding in human relations today as when they were first recognized and practiced.

Washington declared in his Farewell Address, in which he embodied many impressive and enduring truths: "Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports." In these days of national depression it is pertinent to inquire to what extent these "indispensable supports" have been disregarded by our political leaders? Is the violation of certain basic principles of national morality one of the causes of our continued economic depression?

No one claims that honesty in private business has been outmoded or is out of date. On the contrary, we all accept these principles as absolutely essential. Government requires very strict observance of honesty by its citizens. In business transactions truth alone is permissible. We have pure food laws; laws requiring honesty in advertising; and laws for the punishment of misrepresentation in the sale of securities. A false statement in making out one's income tax return, or in answering questions of the census enumeration, is punishable by fine or imprisonment.

But what about honesty and integrity in public affairs? Why is it that the average private citizen feels and freely states that politics is rotten. We all know that politics is the machinery by which popular government functions, and that wherever we have government of the people and by the people, we must have politics. To the extent that politics is corrupt and dishonest, government must be of the same character.

How can we hope that our country, with its free institutions, can survive when politics, which is the machinery of free representative government, is honey-combed with falsehood and dishonesty and shameless corruption?

During recent years our nation has suffered tremendous financial losses. Every fiscal year has shown an unbalanced budget with deficits running into the billions of dollars. The national debt has mounted to approximately 45 billion dollars. While this has been going on, private citizens have suffered no less heavy financial losses, resulting from failures in business, from reduced income and value of all kinds of property, from bankruptcy on every hand, and perhaps most of all, from unemployment. But facing these terrific economic losses, our wisest and most dependable students of government declare that even more serious than these losses in the moral breakdown of our government, resulting from the violation of sacred promises and contractual obligations that has destroyed public confidence.

In comparison with the high standard of public honesty and integrity maintained by our country for 150 years, we bow our heads in shame at the violation of the solemn contract of our government to redeem in gold the Liberty Loan Bonds, which bore the solemn pledge of our nation that they were "redeemable in gold coin of standard weight and fineness," but which are now being paid off with fifty-nine-cent dollars. The United States Supreme Court declared that this action was "repudiation, with all the wrong and reproach that term implies," but that there was no redress.

Who will challenge Washington's statement that "Morality is a necessary spring of popular government"? Then what should an honest, American citizen say of the facts brought out by an impartial Senate investigating committee revealing the shameful use for the purchase of elections of hundreds of millions of dollars appropriated for the relief of the poor? Harry Hopkins, who was public relief administrator at that time, declared that the whole thing was so rotten that he "should have fired the whole cauldron." But he did not fire them, and later he was promoted to be Secretary of Commerce in the President's cabinet. In this position Mr. Hopkins will have an opportunity to discover that, without a doubt, the administration of private enterprise is far less rotten than was his administration of public relief.

No greater task confronts the honest, liberty-loving people of America today than the restoration of HONESTY and INTEGRITY in the administration of public affairs. What sane man can advocate the turning over of private enterprise to the demonstrated inefficiency and corruption of political management as it exists today?

CONSTIPATED?
 This Should Interest You!
 Don't take purges when constipated. They may lead to "Laxative Habit." They rush food through the intestine and, as you probably know from experience, may leave you more constipated than before. This is why so many people now take "Williams Formula"—not a purge, but mild, gentle and satisfying in its laxative action. Furthermore, it may actually help IMPROVE bowel action by its effect on intestinal muscles, allowing the doses to be gradually reduced. Pleasant to take. Costs only a few cents a day to use. Three economical sizes. Recommended sold by Ford Hopkins Drug Store.
